DEDICATION

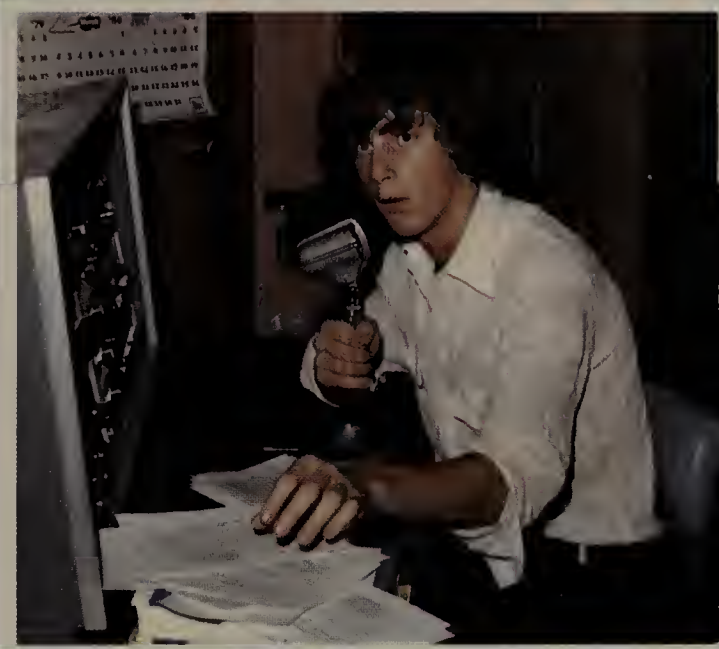

The Seniors of 1980 would like to express our deepest gratitude and appreciation by dedicating this yearbook to our guidance counselor, Mr. Gary Mitchell. His encouragement and understanding have greatly contributed to our success throughout our four years of high school. A respected friend and leader, he deserves a much greater reward than can be expressed in this dedication.

Thank you Mr. Mitchell for all you have done for us.

Pack up all your things

We're gonna be leaving

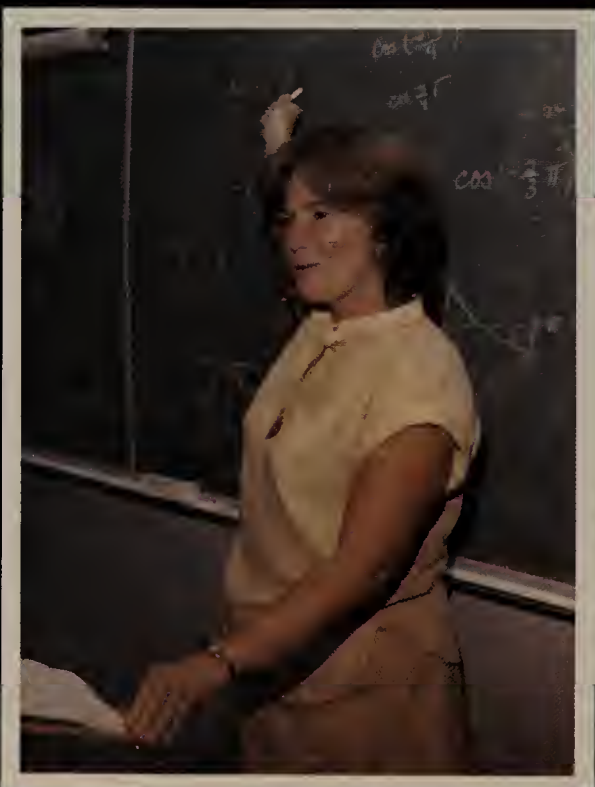

Sooner than I thought

Take the things you brought

Say goodbye to all your friends

We're gonna be sorry

For a while, that's how it goes

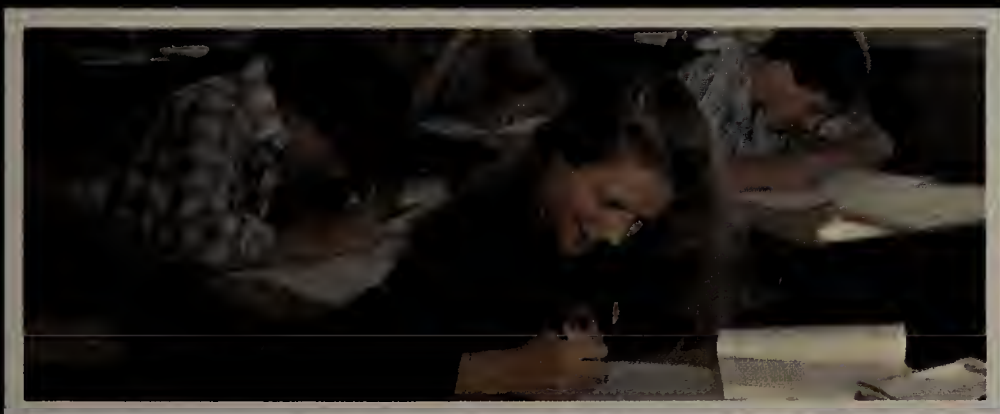

But then again who knows

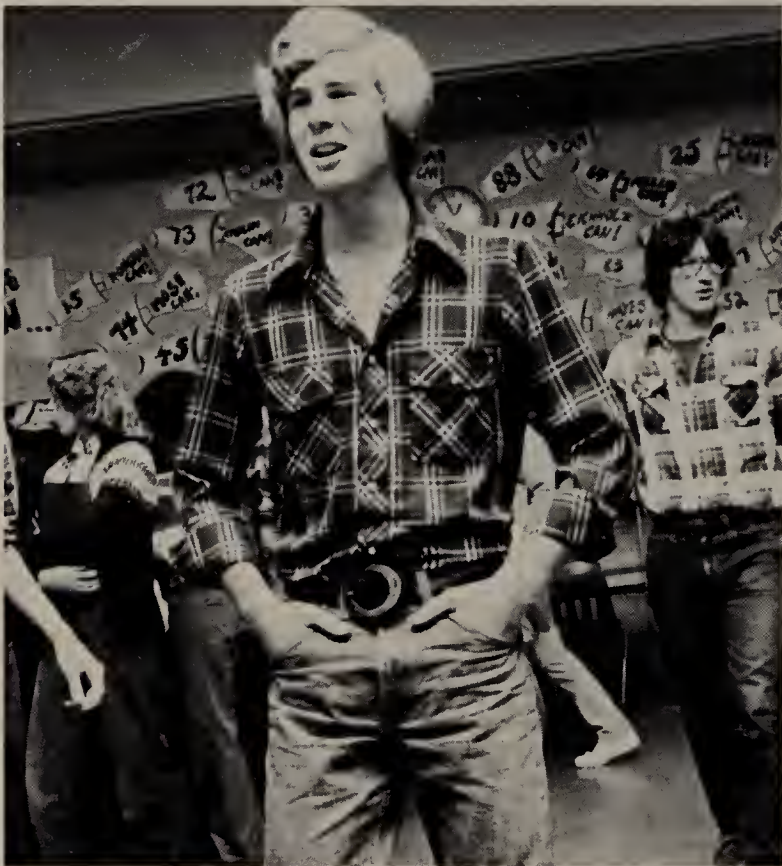

I'm steppin' out, I'm moving on

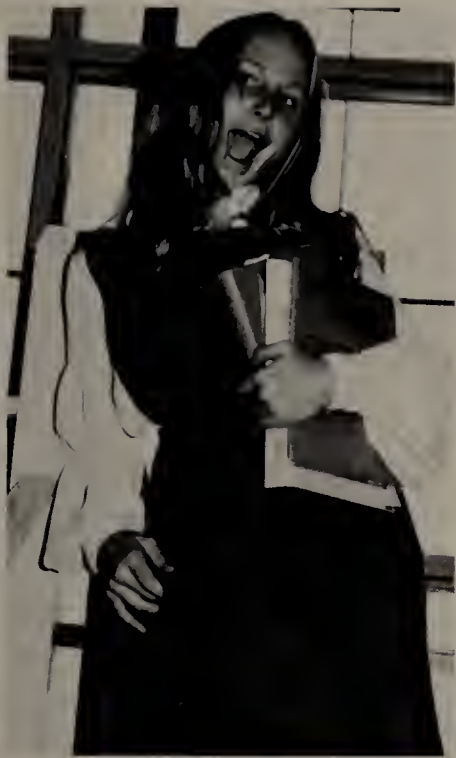

I'm going to see the world

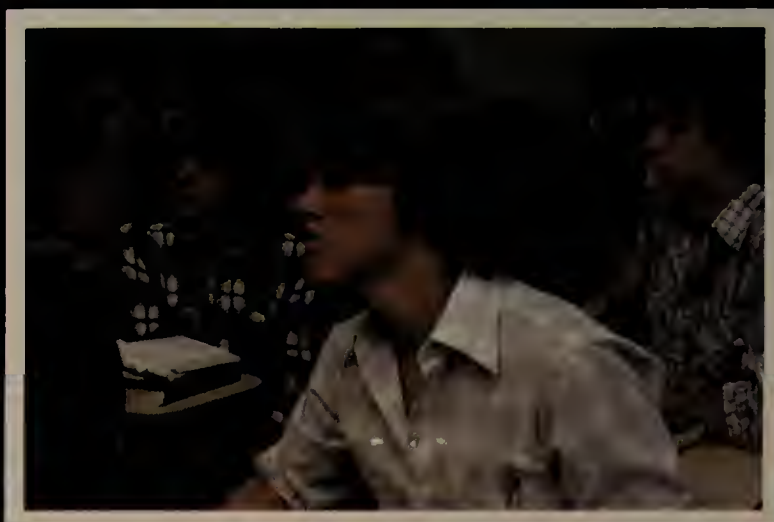

Like a rolling stone

I'm going to be somebody

I'm steppin' out

ADMINISTRATION & FACULTY

SUPERINTENDENT'S OFFICE

SUPERINTENDENT'S MESSAGE

TO THE CLASS OF 1980

What a contrast you have experienced during your last two years at Wachusett! Your junior year was Wachusett's twenty-fifth, and the celebrations of that year brought a warm feeling to the entire Wachusett family. We all enjoyed the heightened sense of community and the pleasant tone which resulted. And now, in contrast, your senior year has been far more somber, the warm feelings and pleasant tone fading as you found yourselves the pawns in a labor dispute. It hurt many of us, after trying to teach you skills for determining and controlling your own lives, having to advise you that this was a problem which, while you were the victims, you could do little to affect or resolve. You have demonstrated mature forbearance (or in some cases, I suppose, apathy) in dealing with this problem. Later in the year, our nation's president has dealt with far more serious, but still similar problems. We hope that you have learned the difficult lesson that the relationships human-to-human and peoples-to-peoples in the world are extremely complex, frequently frustrating, and defying simple solution. We are confident that you will find yourselves, many times in the future, "between a rock and a hard place," where there is no easy solution. We appreciate and praise you, and respect your mixed feelings as you proceed. Peace . . . inner peace . . . be with you.

ADMINISTRATION

HAROLD LANE, Principal

Dear Members of the Class of 1980,

I have always considered it a real privilege to be given the opportunity to write a note to members of a graduating class for their yearbook. I have also found it a real challenge to try and think of something different or unique to say to each class. It has been my experience that each class has a personality of its own that has been honed by the different individuals who go into each new class. Certainly the times — in particular the senior year — are different for each graduating class. As seniors, for instance, you have had to live with unpleasant situations in Iran and Afghanistan on an international level, have experienced the warm-up to the quadrennial madness called a presidential election, have been bombarded with messages about energy conservation and the state of the economy, and have witnessed a teacher-school-committee stalemate over salaries and working conditions, and have seen the first signs of the construction of much-needed additions to Wachusett. Certainly these events — and many more — make you, senior year quite different from those experienced by previous — or future — graduates. But as I thought about the enormity of the differences I was drawn more and more to the fact of the obvious and necessary similarities between your class and all others. The best advice, after all, is that which has stood the test of time. The best preparation for the future is an exhaustive and sensitive look at the past. Underneath the differences that always exist are the ultimate truths. In trying to enunciate one of these truths I came upon the following words of Marie Curie which I want to share with you:

"We cannot hope to build a better world without improving the individual and toward this end, each of us must work toward his/her own highest development, accepting his/her share of responsibility in the general life of humanity."

I can do no better than leave you with those profound words and my sincere prayer that each of you will take seriously the admonition of Marie Curie. I have thoroughly enjoyed working with and getting to know the various individuals who make up the Class of 1980. I have acquired tremendous pride in the accomplishment of the class as a whole. And I wish for each of you the joy of a life filled with personal happiness, and a sensitivity for others.

Good luck . . . and keep in touch!

Sincerely,

Harold M. Lane, Jr.

PER LINDBLOM

Sweden

During his senior year, Per Lindblom was a member of our class. He was an exchange student from Lulea, Sweden. He became a member of the Duncan family of Holden and a brother to Kurt Johnson (another member of our senior class). He was a member of the ski club at Wachusett. Per plans to go to college for engineering when he returns to Sweden.

ASA SANDBURG

Sweden

Another member of our class this year was Asa Sandburg. She was an exchange student from Vasteras, Sweden. She became a part of the Haynes family of Holden, who have no other students at Wachusett. Asa was a member of the dance theater and ski club during her year at WRHS. She likes it here and would like to stay but plans to return to Sweden and attend college this fall.

SOREN THOMSEN

Denmark

Also with us this year was Soren Thomsen. He was an exchange student from Vejli, Denmark. Soren was a member of the Martel family of Holden and a good friend of Dave, a senior this year. He was a member of our winning varsity soccer team, our varsity football team and our winter track team. Soren intends to return to Denmark and go to college in the fall.

The Class of 1980 was happy to welcome these three students as Wachusett seniors. We hope that they enjoyed their stay here and their year at Wachusett, and would like to wish them the best of luck in their future plans.

CREATIVE ARTS

by Kristine Komenda

My life unfolds before me,
like the open road.
I've had my share of bumps
my feelings leak out the cracks.
My thoughts unwind
as the lines pass.

Often I just cruise along,
following the flow.
Sitting back, not paying attention,
I'd better wake up before it's too late.

Just waiting for my exit.
Some exit too soon,
they had to be free.

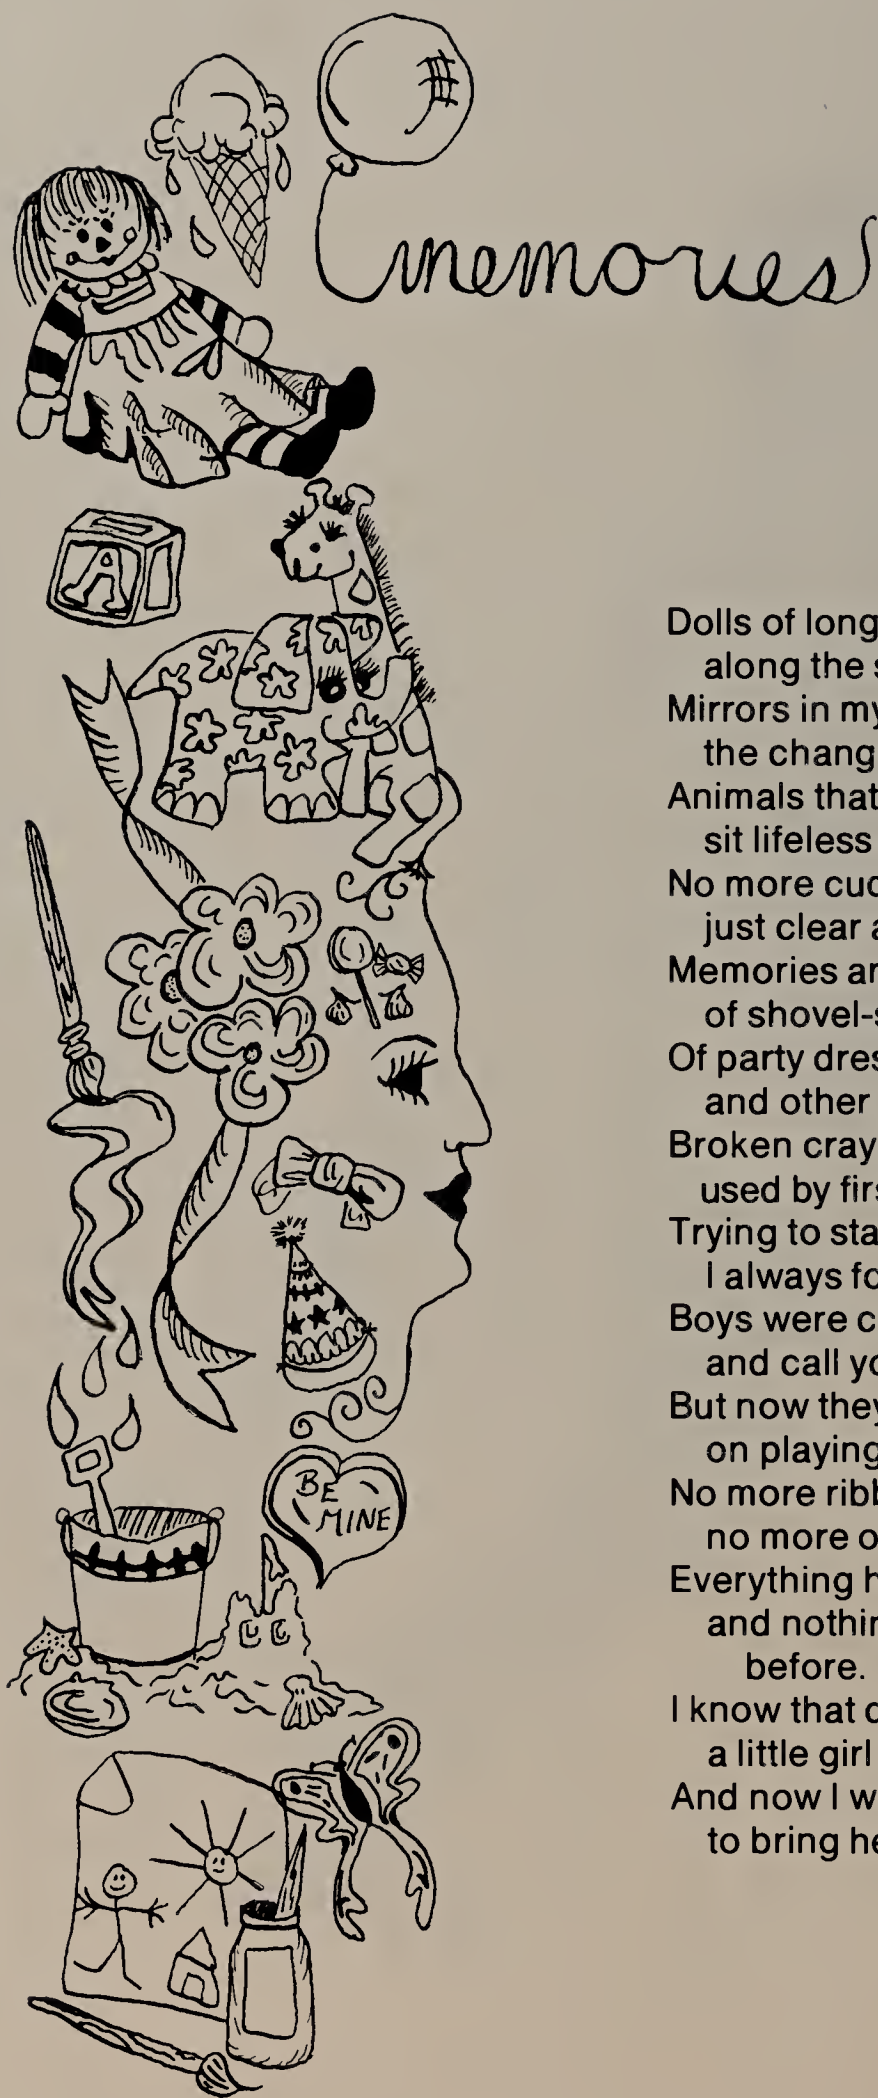

Sometimes my life speeds along
it's like that for too many people.
They're too busy to relax,
to see the world.
Soon the beauty will be gone
then, they'll find they're going in the wrong direction, down a dead end.

by Cheri Donegan

Dolls of long ago have all been placed along the shelf.
 Mirrors in my mind reflect
 the changes in myself.
 Animals that once were real,
 sit lifeless on the chairs.
 No more cuddles, no more hugs,
 just clear and empty stares.
 Memories are all that's left
 of shovel-sand box days.
 Of party dresses, mud pie messes,
 and other childish ways.
 Broken crayons, bits and pieces
 used by first grade artists.
 Trying to stay within the lines,
 I always found to be hardest.
 Boys were creeps who'd pull your hair
 and call you names,
 But now they've aged and all insist
 on playing dirty games.
 No more ribbons tied in bows,
 no more of my goodie drawer.
 Everything has changed . . .
 and nothing seems the way it was before.
 I know that deep inside of me
 a little girl remains
 And now I wish there were a way to bring her back again.

THE BALLOON MAN

I remember, as a child, I would walk past the balloon man and think,
What a wonderful life that would be.
Standing in the sunshine in a beautiful park,
and selling shiny, bluegreenred balloons.
Children wear rose-colored glasses.
I never looked at the man.
Never noticed his ripped shirt and ragged trousers.
Never saw the holes in his sneakers.
Or how thin he was, and dirty.
The other day I walked past the balloon man.
He was on the same corner, in the same clothes,
and he was still selling balloons.
I noticed all the things I never had before.
I bought a bright blue balloon.
The rose-colored glasses turned gray.

I Celebrate Your Sunshine

I lay on the waves of your drifting body
and dance and twirl in the luminous radiance flowing from you I play in your sunshine and laugh all through you
I will never grow old;
I shall be your treasured child
forever.
